or three evenings of each week being occupied by them, while dates for those of chief importance in midwinter season are definitely fixed and the details arranged. The latest to report is the Ihpetonga, the date of which was announced some time ago, though the names of the sixty-two sub-acribers were not made public until last week. The committee for this dance is the same as last year, which insures its success—A. A. Low. Edward H. Litchfeld, William Cary Sanger and Arthur T. Hatch. The subscribers, with few exceptions, are from the Heights.

So many of the dancing men are still laid up with typhoid fever contracted at camp, or are just recovering from it, that good dancers among the men are at a premium. One sees now on the more fashionable streets an occasional pale and wan individual wrapped in overcoat and muffler, and leaning on a cane or crutches, or perhaps ac-cepting the more agreeable assistance of the arm of a pretty woman walking beside him with red cheeks, which emphasize his lack of color. His mother's brougham follows near, and it is not long before the convalencent is glad to enter and be driven slowly about the sunshiny streets, the driver carefully avoiding all snow heaps. Other men, not so fortunate, are still obliged to have careful nursing and probably will not get about until the late spring. The families of these sufferers do not fail to remember the hospitals. One fashionable woman says. "Well, my son's suckness has taught me the meaning of aitruism far better than any of our club papers. I have learned to appreciate the other half as well, for my boy owes his life to the unselfish kindness of one of our colored soldiers." cheeks, which emphasize his lack of color. His

Still another dance is announced for the holiday season, and is to take place at the St. George on the evening of Thursday, December 29. The patronesses will be Mrs. Robert H. Weems, Mrs. Edward A. Lovell, Mrs. Henry Mackay and Mrs. Walter W. Rostwick, Miss Emma A. Weems, Miss Isabel Mackay and Miss Florence Lovell comprise the committee.

Mrs. Frederick A. Harter and Miss Cornella S. Harter, of No. 143 Henry-st., have issued invitations for an at home, from 4 to 7 p. m., on Sat-urday, December 20. Miss Cornelia Harter was graduated from Smith College last June, and im-personated Rosalind at the commencement festivi-ties, obtaining much applause therefor. Mrs. and Miss Harter will receive on Wednesdays in Jan-

the home of Mise C. B. Miller, Sumner-ave, and Hancock-st., in aid of a worthy charity. The parlors presented an attractive appearance, with the lors presented an attractive appearance, with the gayly ornamented booths and the pretty dresses of their attendants. Entrance was obtained by invitation only, each guest receiving a daisy upon reaching the house. Later in the evening the rooms were cleared and there was dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Spies, of No. 92 Joralemon-st., have sent out cards of invitation for a dance at the Pierrepont Assembly Rooms on the evening of Friday, December 30.

Several books offered at this season are by Brooklyn authors, among them Mrs. Alice Morse Earle's "Home Life in the Colonial Days," Dr. Lyman Abbott's "The Life and Letters of Paul-the Apostle," Marion Harland's "When Ghoste Walk" and Charles M. Skinner's new folklore vol-
